Rhode Island Capitol Police

2025 Annual Report

Agency Overview

The Rhode Island Capitol Police was established in 1974 so that the Rhode Island State House would have a police force that was unique unto itself and trained to deal with its specific security needs. Today the Capitol Police are assigned to sixteen facilities throughout the state to provide police and security services.

The mission of the Rhode Island Capitol Police is to provide basic protection for life and property, enforce all laws and ordinances, maintain order at demonstrations and public events, prevent and repress crime, detect violations of the law, and apprehend violators at the Rhode Island State Capitol and annexes, properties contained therein, and the other state buildings, grounds, and premises where they maintain security responsibilities.

In addition, the Capitol Police ensure the safety and security of the general officers, state legislators, judges, state employees, and members of the public who work in and visit these public buildings. Officers operate the metal detectors and x-ray machines at the entrances to all the courthouses, the State House, and the Powers (DOA) building. Capitol Police officers at these facilities are responsible for screening, and if necessary, searching employees and visitors entering these public buildings. They not only patrol these facilities to maintain a safe environment, but they also respond to calls for service to investigate criminal, domestic, traffic and parking related incidents that occur on and/or within the state properties and facilities they patrol.

Leadership

The Capitol Police is a satellite agency under the Department of Public Safety that was established in June of 2009. The Chief of the Capitol Police is Matthew Sutton, who was appointed to the agency in December of 2024 by Commissioner of Public Safety Colonel Darnell S. Weaver. Colonel Weaver was appointed by Governor Daniel J. McKee on April 29, 2022. The agency, while focusing on the specific mission, relies on the assistance and expertise of the Department of Public Safety - the Rhode Island State Police and the Division of Sheriffs - to provide all facilities with high-quality safety, security and law enforcement measures.

Chief Sutton is responsible to plan, develop, direct, supervise, and administer the operation of the Capitol Police force and to provide policing and protection for all buildings, grounds, and premises where staff maintain security responsibilities, against the ordinary hazards of trespass, theft, fire, and damage, and to perform related work as required.

Chief Sutton joined the Rhode Island Capitol Police after serving twenty-five years with the Narragansett Police Department. Chief Sutton holds a Bachelor's degree from the University of Rhode Island. He is also a member of the Rhode Island Police Chiefs Association, the International Association of Chiefs of Police, and the Rhode Island Criminalistics Association.

2025 saw the departure of several longtime members of the Command Staff. In July Lieutenant Joseph Habershaw retired, and in December Captain Donald Sousa retired. Lt Habershaw and Captain Sousa brought decades of law enforcement experience, and their retirements were significant losses to the department. With their retirements came opportunities for growth from within and the Rhode Island Capitol Police were pleased to announce the promotions of Lt Robert Brown, Jr, Sgt Alison Thompson, and Sgt Edward Gaskin. Lt Brown previously served as a Providence Police officer and brings decades of municipal police experience, while Sgts Thompson and Gaskin are career Capitol Police officers.

Overview of 2025

This report will illustrate the agency's steady growth in most of the metrics. Screening numbers have held steady. While this growth is certainly good, it brings with it some significant challenges. As a credit to the men and women of this agency, throughout 2025, despite the growth; the agency successfully maintained state accreditation and increased training to meet these challenges. The agency is well-positioned to meet the challenges of 2026.

A significant milestone was achieved in 2025 when the Rhode Island Capitol Police received reaccreditation for the third time since our initial accreditation award in 2026. This was possible in no small measure due to the efforts of Lt Habershaw and Sgt Thompson. Sgt Thompson was appointed the new Accreditation Manager going forward.

Recruit Class of 2025

As a sign of the times and despite best efforts to retain officers, the agency continues to experience a turnover of officers. This creates a challenge with more frequent recruitment which is both time and labor intensive. Despite these challenges, the agency has been able to hire and maintain an excellent core group of men and women who serve each day in various capacities and at various buildings. The class of 2025 consists of two recruits who successfully completed the training program and are expected to be fully assimilated into the department's operations by Spring of 2026.

I have a great appreciation for all the members of this agency. The officers and support staff form a tremendous team and have continued to provide all the facilities safe spaces for people to visit and conduct their business in these buildings. This is the core of our mission which has not only been achieved, but it has been exceeded. Thank you for taking the time to read through this report.

Capitol Police by the Numbers 2025

Calls for Service.

This year the Capitol Police logged 51534 calls for service.

Capitol Police Calls for Service
2023	2024	2025
56221	52498	51534

These calls for service represent officer-initiated calls as well as calls from members of the public. Our agency serves as the primary responders to all calls for emergencies at our locations. Any serious calls which require lengthy investigations or arrests are handled by the Rhode Island State Police.

Traffic Enforcement/Citations

Our agency issued 96 traffic citations in 2025. Most of those tickets were issued by officers assigned to the Pastore Complex. These citations are primarily for various parking enforcement issues including handicap parking, fire lane violations and unregistered vehicles.

Screening

One of our agencies greatest strengths is the screening that we provide for people entering our six judicial buildings as well as the State House and at the Powers Building. The State does not allow weapons or firearms into any state facility. All Capitol Police Officers and Capitol Police Screeners have received specialized training and undergo biannual testing for the operation of the scanners and magnetometers. This is done to ensure that everyone who works and visits our facilities can do so in an unfettered and safe environment. Our agency also screens all mail and packages that come into the State House and at the courts.

Special Events

In 2025 Capitol Police Officers were called upon to assist with several major special events. Large crowds and the presence of dignitaries bring unique challenges and in 2025 Capitol Police successfully planned and staffed for the State of the State address in January, the Council of State Governments-East gala reception in August, and the Treasurer's Unclaimed Property in November. In addition to planned events, Capitol Police provided security at numerous political rallies in and around the State House, including No Kings 1 and 2 in June and October respectively.

Professional Standards

The cornerstone of any professional police agency is a vibrant and robust method of internal review, oversight, and accountability. The professional standards duties were overseen by Captain Donald J. Sousa, Jr. Captain Sousa had been with this agency for 18 years before his retirement in December 2025. Prior to that, he retired as a Captain with the North Providence Police Department. In addition to his other duties, he investigates complaints that have been lodged by citizens against Capitol Police Officers and he investigates any deviance by members of the agency that do not follow policy standards. By policy, and after a thorough review, the incidents are concluded in the following manner:

- Sustained – Evidence sufficient to Prove the allegation.
- Not Sustained – Insufficient evidence to either prove or disprove the allegation(s)
- Exonerated – Incident occurred but was lawful or proper.
- Unfounded – Allegation is false or not-factual.

- Policy Failure – Flaw in policy caused the problem.

As part of our internal controls, we also compile a quarterly sick time review where we monitor and track officer's use of sick time for any type of patterned abuse or early warning signs. The early warning signs are crucial in maintaining the wellness of each of our officers and supervisors. This is extremely important because our personnel are the cornerstone of our agency.

TRAINING

All sworn members of the department are firearms qualified pursuant to statute (11-47-15.3 RIGL) and POST approval. These firearms trainings are biannual, typically in the spring and fall. The courses include reduced light firing, moving targets, use of cover, hand drills and close quarter firing. In addition, all officers review and are tested on the agency's Use of Force policies, including testing in all the less lethal force options. All officers are also certified in CPR, First Aid and Narcan.

Utilizing PowerDMS software, every Capitol Police officer reviewed all the agency's policies including, workplace harassment, mental health, blood borne pathogens, criminal intelligence, impartial policing, records/ public information, officer wellness and social networking. Officers were also tested in many of these policies including legal updates, 4th Amendment issues and accreditation. The agency also sent several officers to various specialty training programs either to outside locations or remotely by computer.
