Rhode Island Capitol Police

2021 Annual Report

Overview

The Rhode Island Capitol Police was established in 1974 so that the Rhode Island State House would have a police force unique unto itself and trained to deal with its specific security needs. Today the Capitol Police are assigned to sixteen facilities including, the Pastore Complex in Cranston, Rhode Island to provide police and security services.

The mission of the Rhode Island Capitol Police is to provide basic protection for life and property, enforce all laws and ordinances, maintain order at demonstrations and public events, prevent and repress crime, detect violations of the law, and apprehend violators at the Rhode Island State Capitol and annexes, properties contained therein, and the other state buildings, grounds and premises where they maintain security responsibilities.

In addition, the Capitol Police ensure the safety and security of the general officers, state legislators, judges, state employees, and members of the public who work in and visit these public buildings. Officers operate the metal detectors and x-ray machines at the entrances to all the courthouses, the State House, and certain state agencies. They are responsible for the screening, and if necessary, searching employees and visitors entering these public buildings. They not only patrol these facilities to maintain a safe environment, they also respond to calls for service to investigate criminal, domestic, traffic and parking related incidents that occur on and/or within the state properties and facilities they patrol.

The Capitol Police is an umbrella agency under the Department of Public Safety that was established in June of 2009. Our Commissioner is State Police Colonel James M. Manni. The Chief of the Capitol Police is Joseph T. Little, Jr., who was appointed to the agency in August of 2010 by then Commissioner Colonel Brendan P. Doherty.

Chief Little is responsible to plan, develop, direct, supervise, and administer the operation of the Capitol Police force and to provide policing and protection for all buildings, grounds and premises where they maintain security responsibilities, against the ordinary hazards of trespass, theft, fire, and damage, and to do related work as required.

COVID-19:

In March of 2020, the COVID-19 virus began a rapid progression in Rhode Island as it did for the rest of the country. Now almost two years later, the variants remain, and everyone including this agency had to make modifications and adjustments to our personnel as the needs and duties of our facilities change.

For example, several state agencies that have Capitol Police officers assigned to them, have had to adjust conducting their day-to-day business operations and at times, this has had to be done on the fly. I am happy to report that we have had mission success, despite these operational challenges.

State Accreditation:

This agency became accredited through the Rhode Island Accreditation Commission in June of 2016. The entire process began in June of 2013. We then began the laborious process of reviewing all our operations and developing policies based on 204 state standards. Today we have 124 policies that are based on 161 standards that apply to this agency.

A frequent question that is asked is what is the benefit of being an accreditation agency? The answer is that it improves the delivery of law enforcement and security services to the community we serve. It also provides transparency and accountability in our day-to-day operations as we operate to the highest industry standards.

As difficult as the preparations for accreditation were, once we became accredited, we began the process of collecting “proofs” for our files for a group of accreditors who came in to thoroughly review them in early 2019. These proofs verify to them that we are following and training to our established policies. As part of this process, they also seek input from members of the public and other law enforcement agencies.

As a result of that review, we received our first reaccreditation in October of 2019, and we are scheduled for our next reaccreditation in June of 2022.

Twenty for 2020 Campaign

On June 25, 2020, Chief Little along with forty-seven (47) other member Rhode Island Chiefs of Police signed the pledge committing to the principles in the Rhode Island Police Chiefs Twenty for 2020 campaign. This campaign provides twenty (20) promises for our various communities in the State that we are committed to, which broadly fall into four categories:

1. Training
2. Transparency
3. Communications
4. Human Rights

These principles provide our communities with the best police practices to best serve all of our communities and the State of Rhode Island. While this agency is limited in some of these promises due to our specific security mission, we are nevertheless committed to all these pledges to the extent that they apply to our agency. Capitol Police by the Numbers 2021

Calls for Service

This year the Capitol Police logged 47,465 calls for service which is an increase of 34% from 2020. These calls for service represent officer-initiated calls as well as calls from members of the public. In addition to all proactive security related patrols, this agency serves as the primary responders to all calls for emergencies at our locations. Any serious calls which require lengthy investigations or serious arrests are handled by the State Police.

Traffic Enforcement/Citations

The agency issued twelve (12) traffic citations which - due to COVID – were up from last year’s report but still considerably down from seventy-two (72) citations that were issued (pre-Covid) in 2019. These citations continue to be for various parking enforcement issues including handicap parking and fire lane parking issues in state parking lots. Eleven (11) of these traffic citations were paid by the violators and one (1) was dismissed in court.

Screening

The State does not allow weapons or firearms into any state facility. All Capitol Police Officers have received specialized training and undergo biannual testing for the operation of the scanners and magnetometers. This is done to ensure that everyone who works and visits these facilities can do so in an unfettered and safe environment. The agency also screens all mail and packages that come into the State House.

The numbers for entrants for 2021 as compared to 2020 are as follows:

	Archway Counts 2020	Archway Counts 2021
State House	24,644	19,975
Courts	126,588	598,696
TOTALS	198,697	618,671

The archway counts represent the number of visitors who came into each building. In 2021, The agency screened 618,671 people who entered those facilities where there is full screening. This is an increase of over 200% from 2001. The largest volume of screening is attributable to the five (5) State courts. It should be noted that the figures from the courts in 2020 were partial, due to a collection error.

Professional Standards

The cornerstone of any professional police agency is a vibrant and robust method of internal review, oversight and accountability. The professional standards duties are overseen by Captain Donald J. Sousa, Jr. This unit also investigates complaints against Capitol Police Officers that are received by the agency from members of the public. By policy, after a thorough review, the incidents are closed in the following manner:

- Sustained – Evidence sufficient to Prove the allegation
- Not Sustained – Insufficient evidence to either prove or disprove the allegation(s)
- Exonerated – Incident occurred but was lawful or proper
- Unfounded – Allegation is false or not-factual
- Policy Failure – Flaw in policy caused the problem

As part of our internal controls, we also compile a quarterly sick time review where we monitor and track member’s use of sick time for any type of patterned abuse or early warning signs. The breakdown in numbers for this year is as follows:

	Number of Complaints	Sustained	Not Sustained	Exonerated	Unfounded	Policy Failure	UOF Review
Internal Review	27*	16	9	2	0	0	0

*The total agency complaints were 28 but one complaint was erroneously filed with us for another agency. That complaint was forwarded to that agency for investigation.

Any complaints that are sustained can result in progressive discipline from an informal counseling, a formal counseling, an oral reprimand, a written reprimand, a suspension, or a Last Chance Agreement and termination.

In 2021, the following counseling(s)/discipline(s) were imposed:

Counseling	Oral Reprimand	Written Reprimand	Suspension	Last Chance Agreement	Termination Resignation
6	4	1	1	0	1

In 2021 there were no complaints of racial bias lodged against officers. In addition, three, (3) members of the agency were recognized for superlative activity with the awarding of Letters of Acknowledgement.

TRAINING

In accordance with Rhode Island General law 11-47-15.3, all sworn members of the department are firearms qualified pursuant to statute and POST approval. These trainings are biannual, typically in the spring and fall. The courses include reduced light firing, moving targets, use of cover, hand drills and close quarter firing. Additionally, all officers reviewed the agency's Use of Force policies and were tested in all the less lethal force options. All officers are also certified in CPR, First Aid and Narcan.

Using PowerDMS software, every Capitol Police officer reviewed all of the agency's policies including, workplace harassment, mental health, blood borne pathogens, criminal intelligence, impartial policing, records/ public information and social networking. Officers were also tested in many of these policies including legal updates, 4th amendment issues and accreditation.

The agency also sent several officers to various specialty training programs either to outside locations or remotely by computer.
